

My name is Jason Walters, 40 years old and currently employed with Viking Termite and Pest Control. I was born in Yonkers, NY but spent most of my time growing up with Central Jersey. I currently live in South Jersey with my wife and daughter. I graduated from Middlesex high school in 1999 and then went on to study at The State University of New Jersey, RUTGERS. I majored in Environmental and Business Economics, minored in Environmental Policy Institutions and Behavior along with a certificate in Food Systems Administration. Prior to graduation in 2003 I started working for Viking as a field technician. I then completed an internship as their Office Manager in Bridgewater New Jersey.

I have spent the last 19 years working in multiple offices and wearing many hats. I have been a field technician, sales rep, office manager, call center manager, district manager and branch manager. In 2010 I opened a new location for Viking in Audubon, NJ. It operated as a call center and field branch which I was in charge of for 10 years. We have now consolidated our call center operations to our headquarters in Basking Ridge, NJ. We also moved our Audubon branch to West Berlin, NJ. We focus on South Jersey, Eastern Pennsylvania, Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

Over the years I have gone through many different types of training and sales classes. From Pat Quigley to Star 12 development classes, I strive to continually develop myself and skills within the industry. I want the best for the Delaware Pest Control Association and fellow pest control providers. Our goal is to be the leader in the industry to provide the most up to date information and resources available.
