Rose Pest Solutions

PO Box 309

Troy, Michigan 48099

Known better simply as “Shep,” Mark Sheperdigian is an urban entomologist who serves as Vice President of Technical Services for Rose Pest Solutions of Troy, Michigan. He has become well-known both locally and nationally within the pest management industry.

He graduated in 1982 from Michigan State University with a Bachelors in Entomology. Since April of 1983, Shep has been working in urban pest management and has held a variety of positions including service, sales, management and technical support. Among his many current duties are the oversight and support of the Rose Canine Division.

He has served on working groups and committees at all levels to develop training programs and technical position papers. From 1987 until its dissolution in 2020, Shep was a member of the Copesan Technical Committee where he served two years as its chairman and now serves on the board of the Urban Pest Management Technical Committee (UPMTC), a group consisting of technical staff from companies across North America. He is a columnist for Pest Management Professional Magazine and contributes expert opinion for articles in many trade journals and newspapers across the country. Shep is a regular invited speaker to many conferences, and training courses around the nation. He is a Board Certified Entomologist, and a PCT Crown Leadership Award recipient.
